Vulcan Selects Logikor For #1 Overall Shipping Performance

One of the country's largest comprehensive manufacturers of custom loose-leaf binders, Vulcan Information Packaging takes packaging concepts from the drawing board to the customer. Vulcan implemented JD Edwards and proceeded to research shipping software systems available on the market. They finally selected Logikor Inc. after determining that the other vendors simply were not able to meet their current and future needs. Logikor, realizing their urgency to complete this project, assisted Vulcan with implementing the software within their critical timeframe. Logikor worked very closely with Vulcan on the JD Edwards interface, resulting in a very successful implementation.

Vulcan understands how a well-designed package can enhance a product and that is why they work with artists and designers to produce packaging that is custom tailored to their customer's individual needs. Because they handle some of the most exacting specifications, demanding production runs and special customer requirements, a reliable, flexible and fully integrated shipping software system is critical to their business.

Vulcan utilizes GlobalShip iSeries™ for UPS and FedEx (both domestic and international) and LTL shipments. Vulcan has realized numerous benefits from GlobalShip iSeries™ integrated system. Its customer service representatives have instant access to shipping information. Accounts Payable batches are now created daily and automatically to pay their freight vendors. E-mail shipping confirmations are sent to their customers. Customers can now send electronic files with large numbers of addresses that Vulcan processes automatically through GlobalShip iSeries™. Most importantly, the system has proven to be extremely reliable and a vital part of their operation.

Through the years, GlobalShip iSeries™ has further evolved into a very sophisticated and flexible, multi-carrier shipping solution. With a solid customer account base on both JD Edwards World software and OneWorld and multiple interface templates, Logikor has become a market leader in providing sophisticated shipping software solutions to the JD Edwards community. Vulcan Information Packaging has seen the benefits of such a solution and the value it can provide to the business. From the time an order is placed to well beyond product delivery, Vulcan and Logikor's reputations for unparalleled service and the finest products available now encompass their entire order and fulfillment cycle.
